Short Goal Statement:	It is an honor to be considered for the position of President-Elect for the North East Association for Institutional Research. Membership in NEAIR has brought innumerable benefits to my professional development in IR	Stellar annual conferences, numerous professional development opportunities, skill building, mentoring, networking—these are some of the thoughts that come to mind when I think of NEAIR. NEAIR’s success is as well as to me personally. Serving the membership would be a privilege, and a welcomed opportunity to give back to an organization that gives so much.

NEAIR has developed into a strong and stable organization because of its active membership and the dedication of those who have stepped up to lead us. If elected, my aspiration would be to collaboratively build upon this momentum and use this opportunity to cultivate new and creative ideas to support and engage our members.

Institutional research is growing with new professionals entering the field each day. Our responsibilities are expanding and the knowledge, skills, and values needed to meet these challenges are expanding right along with them. The wisdom and experience of our seasoned members, along with those emerging in the field, combine to create a dynamic network of colleagues to offer the professional development and support for success.

Our mission, core values, and vision all center around striving to meet the needs of our members so they excel in the field of institutional research. As outlined in A New Vision for Institutional Research, by Randy L. Swing and Leah Ewing Ross, we are being called toward a new model of institutional research to serve our institutions. Our 2015 conference was aptly themed “Institutional Research...when the only constant is change.” In these times of change, NEAIR is poised to be a critical resource for our membership in all stages of their professional development and career aspirations.

largely due to the willingness of its members to share ideas, support each other, and speak candidly about our profession. NEAIR has a stable governance structure and encourages new members to become involved. As NEAIR president, I believe we should continue to capitalize on these strengths in order to meet our members’ needs.

NEAIR’s membership has increased substantially over the years. As the association grows, one challenge will be to maintain the advantages associated with a smaller organization. I believe we should work toward maintaining these advantages through smaller networking and professional development opportunities.

I believe we could increase the association’s potential leadership base and provide additional ways for our members to connect with each other by providing more options for members to become involved with NEAIR throughout the year.

I believe we should continue to build upon our use of technology as a way for members to connect with each other.

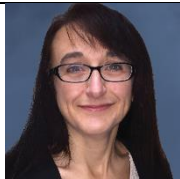

I believe we should continue to offer high quality conference and other professional development programming that builds both statistical and technical skills, as well as softer management, leadership, and presentation skills.

Finally, I believe it is important that we continue to lead the association in a way that is fiscally responsible and strive to balance risk taking and innovation with what has proven to work in the past.

Thank you for your time and for considering my candidacy as NEAIR president.

Short Goal Statement:	I have been a Board member and Treasurer for HEDS and another non-profit for a combined nine years so my objective will be again to offer balanced and uncomplicated counsel on all financial matters. In addition to providing thoughtful input on budgets and financial statement preparation, I also want to make sure that NEAIR is making full use of its cash reserves by exploring its investment alternatives and banking relationships. I will also do my best to make sure everyone, especially audiences without a financial background, can easily understand how we are performing and where we are going. Foremost, I will always keep what is best for the membership as my guidepost.	As Treasurer of NEAIR, my goal is to be a fiscally responsible steward of NEAIR’s budget to ensure that members are receiving an excellent value for their investment while also ensuring that the organization is fiscally solvent and can freely engage in a variety of worthwhile activities keeping costs to members as minimal as possible.

Short Goal Statement:	Whether one is a novice IR practitioner or an experienced VP, the benefits of our professional organization are clear. We are a community of practice; and through collegiality, mentorship, and networking we strengthen not only our own career development but the nature and importance of our profession. If elected, it is my intention to continue and enhance the good work of NEAIR following the path paved by previous leadership. I think that many members would agree that the professional development received and shared by our organization is invaluable. At the same time, I want to be cognizant that our profession and association should also be reflective in our policies, procedures, programs, and governance. For example, I have reflected on AIR's Statement of Aspirational Practice for Institutional Research and its focus on student success and what this means at my institution. As a member of the steering committee, I hope to bring similar perspectives in discussions in order to ensure that NEAIR continues to meet the needs of our members going forward.	I have been working in higher education for over twenty years in various capacities, primarily at Purchase College. I have been a bit myopic over the years and was so energized by the 2015 NEAIR conference. I was impressed by the level of collegiality, the incredibly informative and pertinent workshops, and the opportunity for networking. I am very interested in rolling up my sleeves and contributing in a significant way to the continuation of such important work.	I have found this Association and the people in it are essential to the role IR plays in the growth of higher education. As an Association, NEAIR has provided me with many excellent networking and educational opportunities that have supported me throughout my career in IR. I owe a lot to NEAIR and the colleagues I have connected with through the Association. I have been fortunate and I would like to give back to NEAIR in any way I can. I would be proud to serve on the Steering Committee and help continue to build and strengthen this great organization.
