Maryland Community College Research Group (MCCRG), member since 2013

- MCCRG Annual Retreat, Presenter (2016, 2017)

Short Goal Statement:

NEAIR is an intellectually vibrant and nurturing professional community that I've been involved with since a newcomer. I have greatly benefited from my roles in the organization and value the relationships I have cultivated. NEAIR is very dear to me and it would be an absolute honor to serve in this capacity.

I have 16 years of experience in higher education with 12 of those as an institutional researcher. I have worked in IR offices of varying size and scope of responsibility at public and private institutions, at two- and four-year schools, and at a faith-based institution. These experiences provide me with an unique vantage point when considering how to best serve NEAIR's diverse membership.

As President my goals would be to:

- Provide timely and relevant professional development opportunities to address members' needs as our field evolves; we must be mindful of career stage and institutional context when developing programs. We should partner with experts outside of IR to create and deliver programming too.
- Enhance the strategic planning process to promote financial health and organizational development. There are opportunities to create a planning cycle with long- and short-term horizons, to align plans across committees and to the organization-wide one, and to more intentionally link the association's assessment, planning, and budgeting functions. NEAIR is well-positioned to do this with its existing planning framework, strong financial management principles, and the ad hoc Research Committee.
- Develop a research agenda in conjunction with the ad hoc Research Committee to inform the strategic planning process. There are opportunities to develop a segmentation model of current members and to identify and explore new markets.
- Strengthen transition planning to promote a high-performing team approach to governance, to support new committee members and chairs, and to cultivate a strong pool of future leaders.

Chair 2016 and 2017

Short Goal Statement:

It is a great honor to be considered for the position of President-Elect for the North East Association for Institutional Research. Over the last 16+ years, my NEAIR membership has provided me with more professional development and networking than any other professional organization I have been a member. NEAIR continues to offer an excellent annual conference, numerous professional development opportunities (like the Summer Drive-in PDS series), networking opportunities, and a large number of volunteer opportunities that provides a true colleague-ship. I have always felt at "home" with NEAIR. I find that atmosphere is especially appealing for those in single staffed IR Offices as I was for the first 10 years of my career in IR. I can honestly say I would not be where I am at today without my involvement in NEAIR.

Serving the membership in the role of President-Elect would be a great privilege and a welcomed opportunity to give back to an organization that has given me more than the space here allows. Through my varying volunteer and leadership roles with NEAIR (and other affiliated organizations) I have really seen the inner workings of an almost fully volunteer operation. With less than 1.5 FTE staff, NEAIR has grown into in my opinion, the best professional associations in our field, largely due to the strong membership and collegiality that is created and maintained. If elected, my aspiration would be to continue to build on what past leaders have left which is a very strong organization/association. One specific aspiration would be to continue to develop ways at which we can better serve and engage members. Looking at the challenges facing our institutions and industry as a whole, what role should NEAIR play in supporting IR practitioners to be best suited to assist our institutions in these challenging times. I would look to find creative and collaborative ways to better support our members no matter their phase of career. I would look to further the use of technology within the organization to better reach and engage members. Create synergies with AIR and other IR affiliated organizations to potentially pool resources and /or collaborate to deliver more for less. As our institutions are being asked to do more with less, I think NEAIR can lead the way by being a model of how to do this effectively. Again, it would be a great honor and privilege to serve NEAIR in this capacity.

AIR service: volunteer reviewer for Forum proposals

Short Goal Statement:

NEAIR membership and activity have provided me with important paths for personal and professional growth. I would like to serve in order to repay this opportunity in a small way, and to help ensure that others can continue to reap the same benefits and rewards. Working at a small institution within a state system gives me insight on a wide range of challenges we confront professionally; my experience in other voluntary organizations will help me understand the issues facing NEAIR.

Served on the steering committee for New Jersey Association for Institutional Researchers (NJAIR).

Served on Executive Committee of the Higher Education Data Advisory Group (HEDAG) for Office of the Secretary of Higher Education in New Jersey

Short Goal Statement:

It is an honor for me to be nominated for the position of Recording Secretary for NEAIR. I consider this position to be a vital one on the governing board as it records important details from various meetings, and assists the steering committee to move forward with their agenda for various initiatives and programs. My goal is to provide quality service to the organization, especially the steering committee, by capturing detailed and accurate information and ensuring that it is provided to the Steering Committee timely. Being a NEAIR member I have had a very enriching experience and it has helped me develop professionally. It will be a privilege to serve NEAIR in this capacity.

2013-2016. Assessment Coordinator. Worked with conference teams and association leaders to revise and improve post-conference evaluation surveys and pre-conference workshop surveys. Wrote and presented reports on survey results to conference teams and association leaders.

2016-2017 -- Co-chair, Research Committee.

SUNY AIRPO:

2011-2012 -- President;

2010-2011 -- Vice President/President Elect;

2016-2017 -- Doctoral Sector Representative, member of Executive Committee, and SUNY IR Advisory Committee;

2008, 2010, 2014 -- Local arrangements chair or co-chair;

2010 -- program co-chair;

Short Goal Statement:

My most important goal in serving as a member of the NEAIR Steering Committee would be to bridge gaps across NEAIR's varied membership. In my career, I have worked in IR, outcomes assessment, program review, accreditation, strategic planning, and survey research. After more than 10 years at a public institution that is part of a large system, I am now at a private university.

I feel that my own experience in these areas would help me bridge some of the natural divides that inevitably occur among our members -- both in areas of substantive focus, and in institution type -- and that I can help identify and facilitate opportunities for synergy among our members.

AIR: Member since 2013

Short Goal Statement:

NEAIR has a compelling mission to promote institutional effectiveness in a rapidly changing higher education environment and to bring IR professionals together in achieving that mission. I have joined NEAIR in 2013 after I moved to the East Coast and since then served on the Membership Committee as the Job&News Coordinator for NEAIR. The association gave me many opportunities for personal and professional development as well as helped to build encouraging and supporting friendships through networking. Being engaged with talented and like-minded people is priceless, and I want to continue giving back to the membership and assist the association with identifying further possibilities for members' professional development and career advancement and building a strong collaborative community of researchers.

In the approximately 10 years I have been a NEAIR member I have presented a number of papers as well as taught an Introduction to R for Institutional Researchers pre-conference workshop for five years. In 2013 I was the recipient of the Ambassador Grant which allowed me to attend the useR conference. I have been trying to help Institutional Researchers utilize R and other open source software to conduct reproducible research while saving money.

Short Goal Statement:

My primary goal as steering committee member is to contribute back to the organization that has been critical to supporting my career in Institutional Research. My role in IR has allowed me to pursue and receive a Federal Grant. I would like to help the IR community pursue a more active role in developing institution wide interventions to support student success.

Membership committee, Social Media Coordinator 2014-current:

My primary role on the NEAIR Membership Committee has been community building through purposefully planning engagement through the organization's social media tools.

--Created mentoring social media campaign to highlight the value of our mentoring program. This involved creating a graphic template in which I included head shots and quotes from our mentors / mentees. Some copy editing was involved in fitting quotes into the image.

--Created Pre Conference workshops social campaign for the 2016 conference

--Organized the volunteer NEAIR twitter team for the 2016 conference.

--Collaborated within committee to get content out in a timely manner

--Spearheaded the NEAIR social media calendar, which includes information from other committees

--Moderator for the NEAIR Facebook page

--Moderator for the NEAIR Twitter account

--Moderator for the NEAIR LinkedIn main group and the career sectional groups

--Work collaboratively with our other Social Media Coordinator to ensure coverage of important events, encourage engagement, and balance the workload

--Helped brainstorm ideas to further engage NEAIR membership

--Broke NEAIR into new mediums of communication

--Joined an Ad Hoc committee created by the technology committee to review the top two choices for new NEAIR website platform so that member needs could be included in the decision making process.

--Active on social media

Short Goal Statement:

I started with NEAIR as a midcareer professional, and felt like I was part of the NEAIR community. I've been fortunate to serve in a community building capacity while on the Membership Committee. If elected to Steering Committee I would continue this work with a focus on all areas of our membership. I would also work collaboratively with the other standing committees to enhance communications within the organization.

Short Goal Statement:

I believe that NEAIR should continue to serve as a forum for networking among institutional researchers in the Northeast and enhance its role as a source of professional development in cutting-edge trends in our field. In addition to the annual conference and PDS workshops, I would like to see NEAIR offer and/or sponsor training opportunities in specific topics of interest to the IR community such as information technology, analytics, leadership, and policy. I think that NEAIR should be the model among the regional AIR affiliates.

Short Goal Statement:

I have been in IR and a member of NEAIR for 11 years now. For most of that time, I have been a quiet observer while also benefitting from the many great opportunities that the NEAIR membership provides, from the annual conferences to the support and guidance found from the listserve and the members. I feel that it is now my time to give back and serving on the Nominating committee would be a great way to do so. Over the past decade, and even more so in recent years, the world and work of IR has seen much change, yet the heart and core of what we do as institutional researchers is still the same. My overarching goal as a member of the nominating committee would be to help recruit candidates who can move forward the professional growth of NEAIR members while both embracing the changes IR is facing and also ensuring that we don't lose sight of the heart and core of IR.

Short Goal Statement:

Data is the new oil, says Fortune Magazine. Analytics is the refinery, proclaims Deloitte Magazine. No doubt, in the age of Internet of Things (IoT), Big Data, and artificial intelligence, data assets and the utilization of data intelligence to support decision making will be critical to higher education institutions that are under tremendous pressure to be more efficient, effective and accountable. This is a time of challenge for the institutional research community and a time of opportunity as well. Institutional research needs to branch out of the traditional data collection and data reporting model and plays a more active role in providing actionable insights to support campus decision making, from program review to strategic planning, from academic dashboard to competitive intelligence. As a professional community, NEAIR plays a pivotal role in connecting members to cutting edge thinking in higher education, innovative approaches to using data and analytics , and advances in analytical tools. I am interested in competing for a seat at NEAIR's Nomination Committee so that I can make contributions in the following ways: 1) advocating for the adaption of the new Statement of Aspirational Practice and translating it to NEAIR's professional development efforts; 2) supporting highly capable and passionate individuals to become officers of NEAIR; and 3) connecting with the IR communities to share our knowledge and experience.

Short Goal Statement:

NEAIR provides numerous forms of professional development, opportunities to build and cultivate relationships, and many ways to volunteer for the organization. I have taken advantage of these opportunities and my career development has accelerated because of my NEAIR experiences. In addition to volunteering on my own for different roles in NEAIR, I have been encouraged by members to pursue association roles that I may not have otherwise considered. I want help to identify and embolden members who are eager to contribute and lead the association. Further, I want to ensure all institutional types and members from varying backgrounds are considered for the ballot.
